Joanne Sawatzky, B.TECH., M.SC., LEED AP Senior Green Building Project Manager

Joanne runs the technical services department at Light House. She is not only experienced in the coordination and management of workshops and design charrettes but also brings technical robustness in green building consulting. She holds an undergraduate degree in Architectural Science and Building Science from Ryerson University and a Master of Science degree in Energy Efficient Building from Oxford Brookes University. She has over eight years of work experience in green building design and consulting working on various projects; from single-family homes to large urban redevelopments, retrofits to new designs, and teaching and mentoring future design professionals and contractors. Most recently she provided contractor training on green building projects and will explain more about this program in her presentation.
